STUDY MATERIAL

Introduction

Plants have provided man with all his needs in terms of shelter, clothing, food, flavours and fragrances as not the least, medicines. Plants have formed the basis of sophisticated traditional medicine systems among which are Ayurvedic, Unani, Chinese amongst others. These systems of medicine have given rise to some important drugs still in use today. Among the lesserknown systems of medicines are the African and Australian, Central and South American amongst others. The search for new molecules, nowadays, has taken a slightly different route where the science of ethnobotany and ethnopharmacognosy are being used as guide to lead the chemist towards different sources and classes of compounds. It is in this context that the flora of the tropics by virtue of its diversity has a significant role to play in being able to provide new leads. Nonetheless the issue of sovereignty and property rights should also be addressed in line with the Convention for Biological Diversity (CBD).

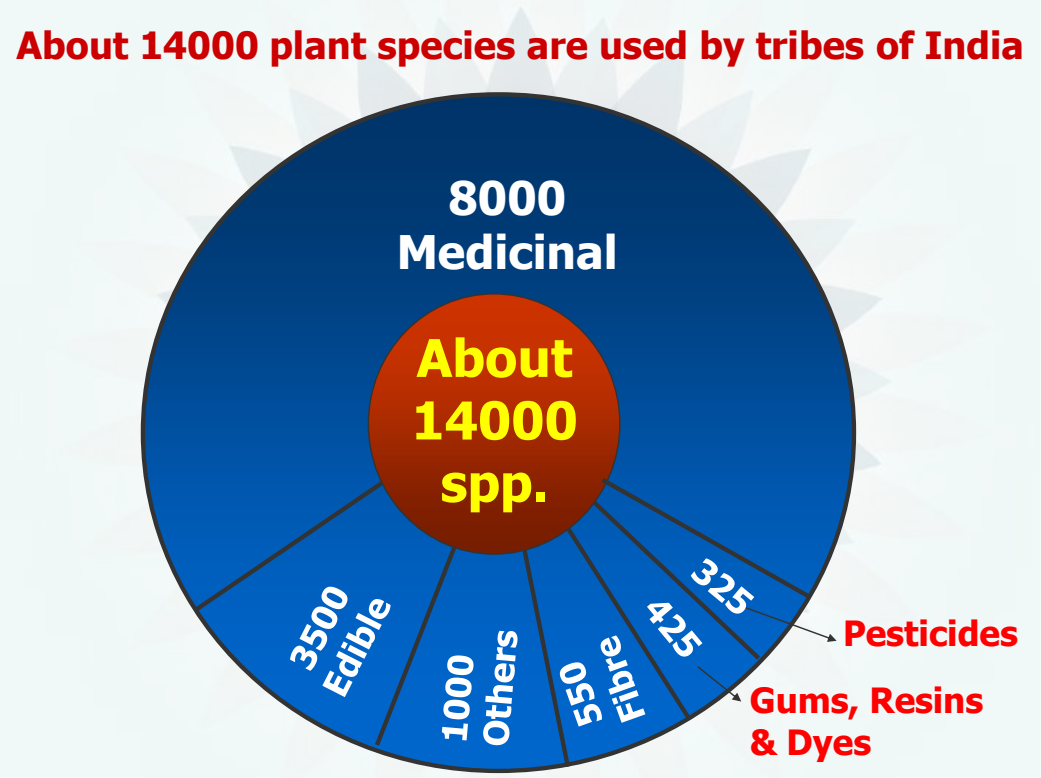

- From prehistoric ages, human life and culture have either directly or indirectly been associated or influenced by the vegetation around.
- In ancient days, Human being was entirely dependent on nature for his survival relying on plants and animals for his food, shelter, clothing, material culture and medicine.
- His dependence on plants around him made to acquire the knowledge of economic and medicinal properties of many plants by trial and error.
- Consequently, he became the store house of knowledge of many useful and harmful plants, accumulated and enriched through generations and passed on from one generation to another, without any written document.
- The forests in India is the principal repository of large number of medicinal plants which are largely collected as raw materials for new drug discovery.
- According to WHO, 80% of people worldwide rely on herbal medicines and nearly 21,000 plant species have the potential for being used as medicinal plants.

Over 75,000 higher plants are used by different cultures for medicinal & aromatic purpose.

About 15,000 higher plants species are used in Asia

- Nearly 7,000 in China & About 8,000 India
- 1700 in classical Indian systems of medicine
- Ayurveda 1200
- Siddha 900
- Unani 700
- Tribal medicine 8000

About 14000 plant species are used by tribes of India

CAUSES FOR DEPLETION OF NATURAL RESOURCES

- ✓ Mining, hydroelectric and irrigation projects
- ✓ Urbanization and Industrialization
- ✓ Intensive and extensive agriculture
- ✓ Trade
- ✓ Tourism
- ✓ Over exploitation
- ✓ Natural calamities (disasters)
- ✓ Podu/shifting cultivation
- ✓ Migration
- ✓ IAS (Invasive Alien Species)

HUMANS ARE RESPONSIBLE FOR ALL THE ABOVE ACTIVITIES

Podu cultivation

Cutting of trees

Smuggling of wood

Grazing by cattle

Wild fire

Transport of fire wood

Transportation of bamboo

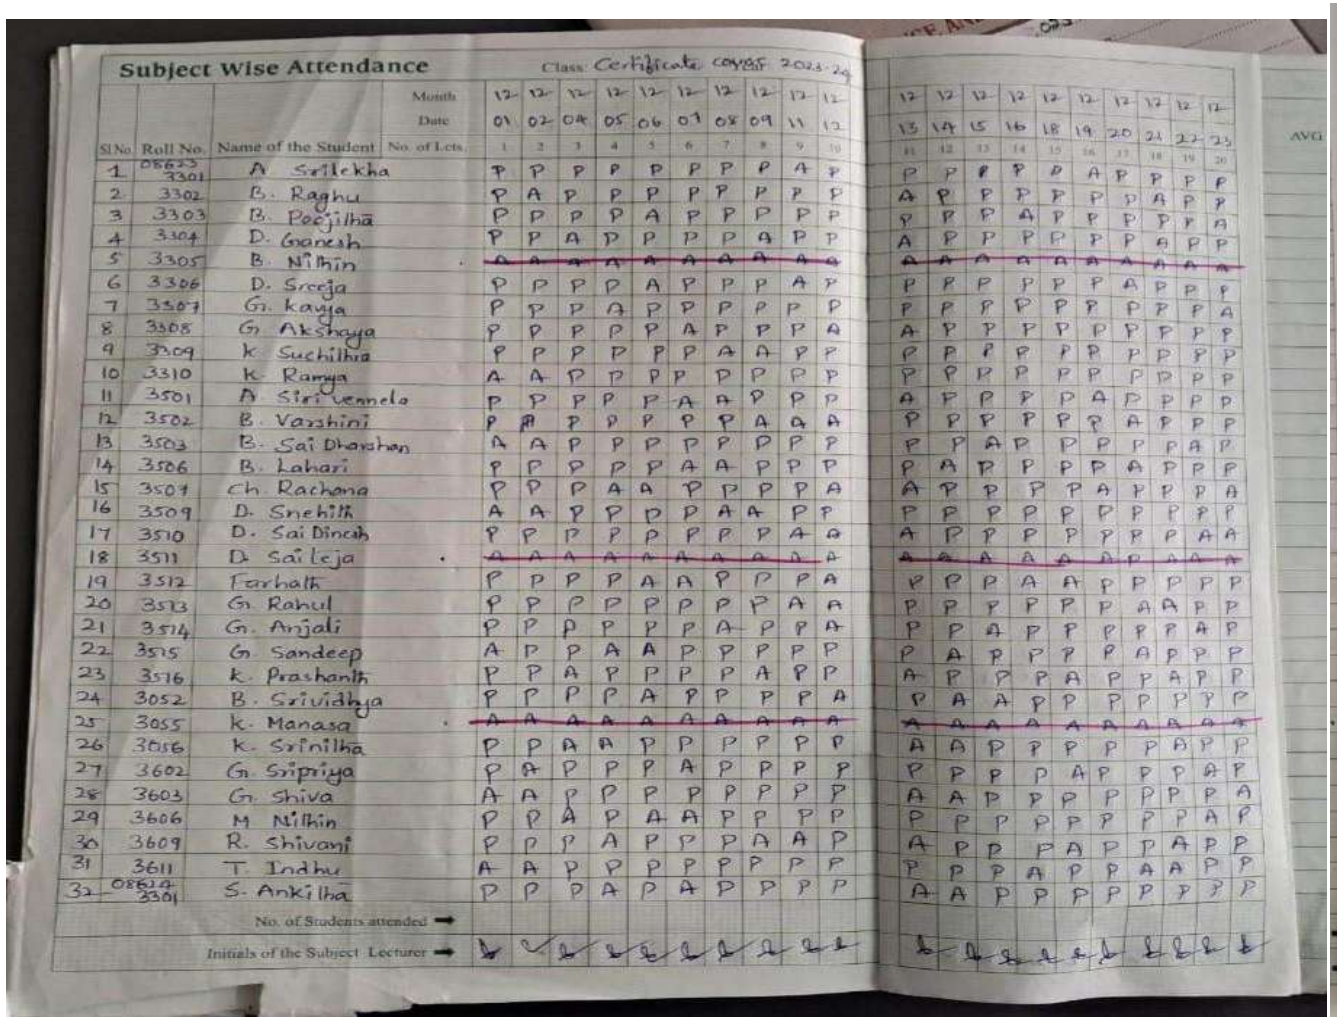

Ethics in plant collection

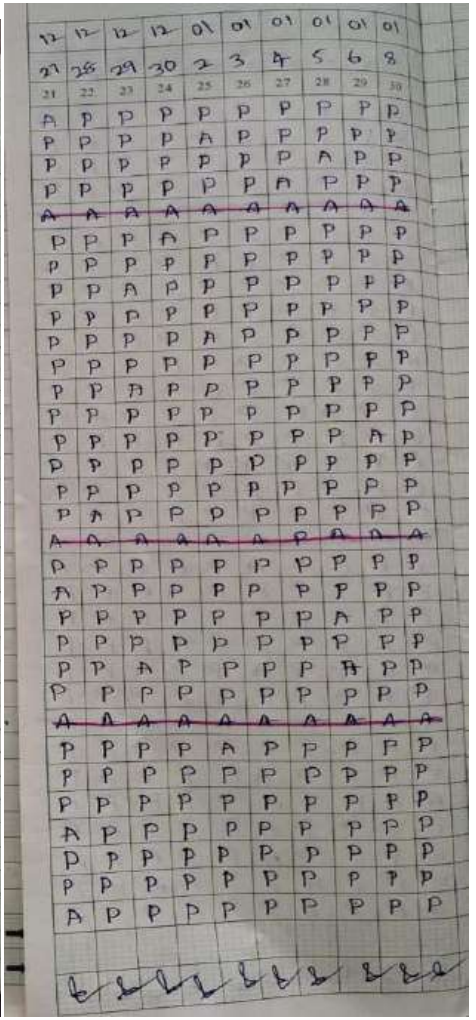

- Always respect and care for the environment from which you are taking flora.
- No matter where you are collecting, always take only the minimum amount of material required and never collect more than 25% of sample population or more than 10% of the reproductive material.

Suggestions for management and conservation of Medicinal plants

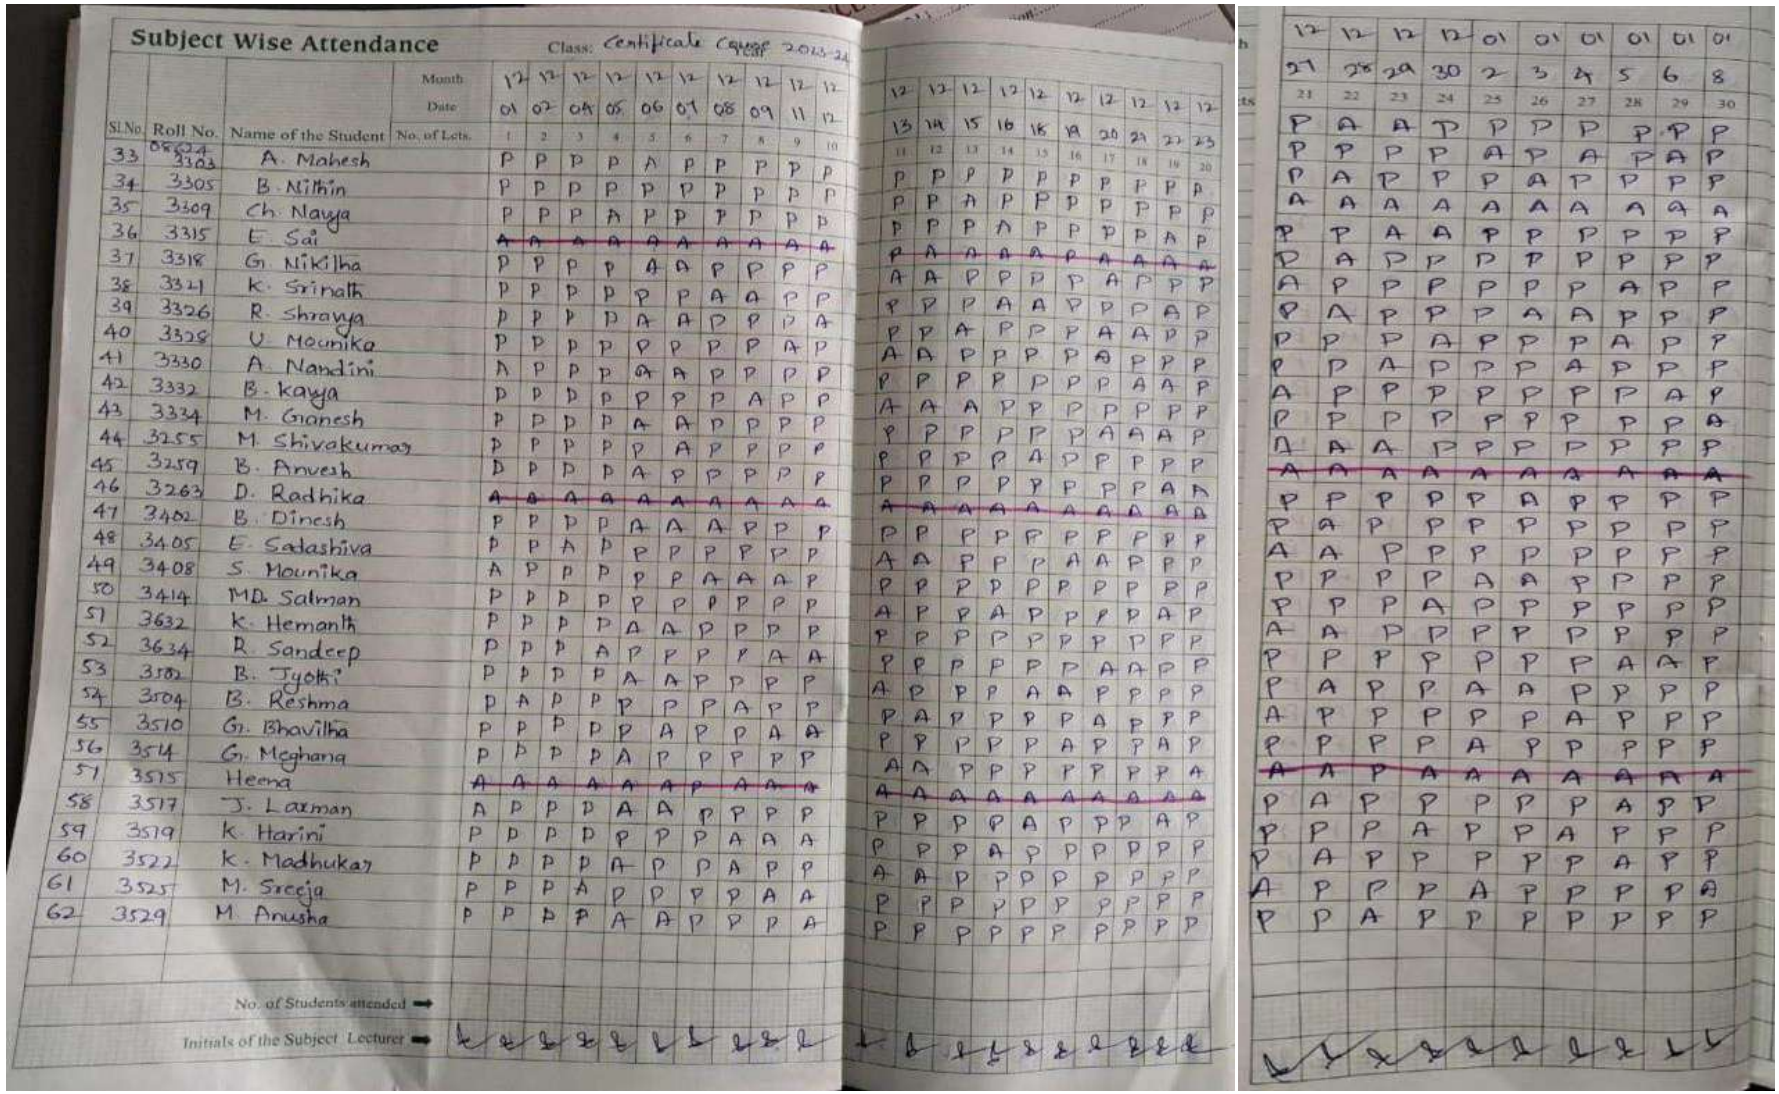

1. There is a need to invent local vegetation and database preparation of floristic composition including medicinal plant species.
2. There is a need to properly understand the local tribals, their social, cultural and religious customs and to aware the rest of the world about them.
3. Need to collect the indigenous knowledge of local tribals of the area
4. RET plant species should be identified and mass cultivation of medicinal plants should be done.
5. Critically endangered species should be avoided for commercialization/collection.
6. Permitted species should be harvested in a scientific and non-destructive way.
7. There is a need to collect the traditional botanical knowledge of local tribals about local plants by exhaustive survey.
